

Red Flowering Currant

Ribes sanguineum

Characteristics: Medium sized deciduous shrub (to 6 feet tall) producing clusters of dark pink flowers in spring and red berries in the fall. Berries from this current are edible but considered far from choice. Primarily cultivated for the lovely blooms in spring.

Native Range: Northwestern States

Landscape Uses: Perennial garden, Hummingbird garden